There are adjustments to the eligible groups throughout this matrix (when compared to the matrix dated 27 Mar 14). There are additional AFSC/grades that are no longer eligible because the Air Force achieved the required losses through voluntary retirement and separation applications.

How to read and interpret this matrix:

Airmen in a grade/AFSC group with a blue box are eligible to apply for FY14 Voluntary Force Management Programs and Incentives.

Airmen in a grade/AFSC group with a red box are ineligible to apply for FY14 Voluntary Force Management Programs and Incentives.

Notes:

- Eligibility does not guarantee approval. As application processing continues, Airmen in grade/AFSC groups that show as blue (i.e., eligible) on the matrix may receive disapproval notices once the overage is met. If met, the next publishing of the Voluntary Program Eligibility Matrix will show that grade/AFSC group as red to denote that the group is now ineligible.
- For additional information on the specific voluntary programs, please refer to the following PSDMs located on the myPers Enlisted Force Management page.
 - Voluntary Separation Pay (VSP) PSDM 14-07.
 - Limited ADSC Waivers, Time in Grade Waivers, and Expanded PALACE CHASE PSDM 13-64
 - Temporary Early Retirement Authority (TERA) PSDM 14-33. This program has re-opened for a limited group of enlisted members. Please review the eligibility criteria outlined in Attachment 1 of PSDM 14-33 before submitting a TERA application.

Frequently Asked Questions Regarding the FY14 Voluntary FM Programs Eligibility Matrix

Q1. What do the color codes mean in the matrix?

A1. Blue indicates that there are overages in that grade/AFSC block based on our projected future requirements and that Airmen serving in that grade/AFSC block are eligible to apply for voluntary programs. Red indicates there are no overages and Airmen are ineligible to apply for voluntary programs.

Q2. My AFSC used to be blue on this matrix, but now it is red. Am I still eligible to apply for separation?

A2. Yes, you are eligible to apply for separation (as normal) if you have no Active Duty Service Commitment (ADSC). However, because we no longer have overages in your grade/AFSC group, you are not eligible to apply for the FY14 voluntary programs.

Q3. If my eligibility box went from red to blue, does this mean I'm going to meet the FY14 Enlisted Retention Board (ERB)? Q3. No. Although the adjusted manpower requirements result in overages in your grade/AFSC, Airmen who were ineligible to apply for voluntary programs on the previous matrix will NOT be eligible to meet the FY14 ERB.

Q4. I applied for the voluntary programs when my grade/AFSC block was blue, but now my block is red. I haven't received a notice yet regarding my application. Does this mean my application was disapproved because my block is now red? A4. Not necessarily—application processing and notification was ongoing at the time this matrix was updated. All Airmen will receive an official notice from AFPC regarding the final outcome of their application.

Q5. Will this matrix change?

A5. Yes, this matrix will change periodically as retirement and separation applications for Airmen in your AFSC/grade group are processed.

Q6. My grade is red, but I have a line number for promotion and that grade is blue. Am I eligible to apply for the voluntary programs?

A6. Yes. You are eligible to apply because you are projected to be serving in the next grade which has overages. However, eligibility does not guarantee approval.
